

EXPLORATION 03 · PRE-DESIGN · PACHINKO SIGNATURE

Giving Pachinko its own DNA.

TFA carries uli line work and Akwete geometry in its chrome. Pachinko was running without an equivalent — relying on the umber-vs-cream contrast alone to differentiate. This exploration builds Pachinko's parallel motif vocabulary, sampled directly from the English and Korean cover editions.

WHAT I SAMPLED

- English cover — concentric pachinko medallions in teal enamel, vertical pin cascades in gold, central butterfly framed in metalwork.
- Korean cover — bilateral floral scrollwork, stylized rosettes, mirrored composition, the same butterfly visual rhyme.
- Shared DNA — medallion + butterfly + symmetry. That's the throughline I'm building the vocabulary around.

COUSINS, NOT LOOKALIKES

Pachinko's primitives parallel TFA's structurally — medallion ↔ Akwete diamond, scroll tendril ↔ uli pair, butterfly mark ↔ triangle terminator. Same restraint level, same role in chrome (rule ornaments, dividers, card corners), never as wallpaper. The two systems should feel like cousins, not lookalikes.

Butterfly mark is intentionally simple — a bilateral glyph, not an illustration · Single occurrence per page · Rosettes use radial geometry, not floral illustration

MEDALLION • PACHINKO PIN

Section openers. Hub-card corner. Large-scale section markers.

PIN CASCADE

Vertical decorative rule. Column dividers. Bullets at large sizes.

ROSETTE • STYLIZED CHRYSANTHEMUM

Section terminators. Page-end markers. The symmetrical alternative to the medallion.

FLORAL SCROLL • MIRRORED TENDRIL PAIR

Pull-quote brackets (parallel to TFA's uli pair). Eyebrow flourishes.

BUTTERFLY MARK

Single occurrence per page only. Wordmark accent. End-of-page signature. The visual rhyme that ties to both covers.

BILATERAL BAND

Hub-page header bottom edge. Single occurrence. Parallel to TFA's Akwete diamond band.

SUMMER READING · TEXT ONE

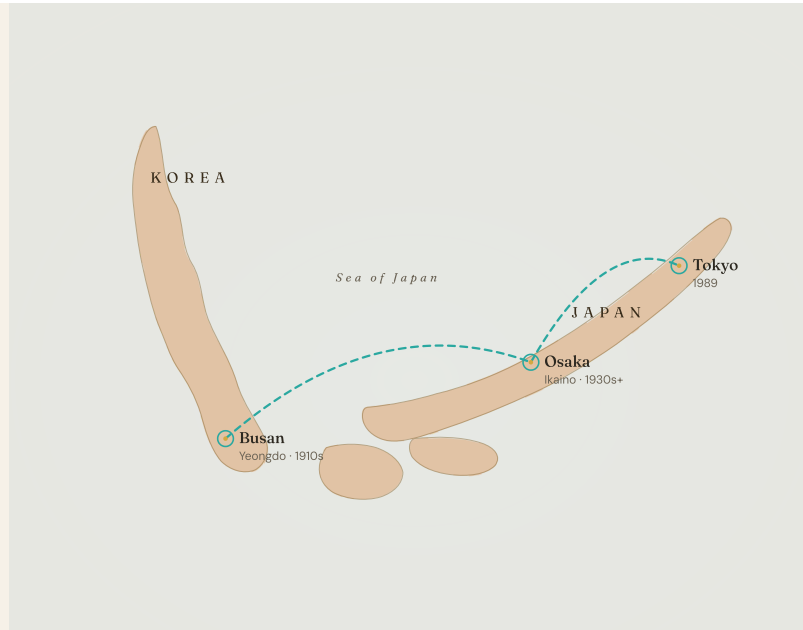

Pachinko · 1910–1989

Min Jin Lee's novel follows four generations of a Korean family across the Japanese occupation, wartime upheaval, and postwar Osaka. To read it well, you need to know the world it crosses — Yeongdo, Ikaino, Tokyo — and the long history of Zainichi Koreans inside Japan.

THE WORLD OF THE NOVEL

From Yeongdo to Osaka — the migration that shapes the book.

hover any city to read about it

History has failed us, but no matter.

Min Jin Lee · opening line

THE NEW TEST

Two registers, two signatures — does the family resemblance still hold?

The Living Atlas / PACHINKO

SUMMER READING · TEXT ONE

Pachinko

1910–1989 · Korea & Japan

WORLD OF THE NOVEL

01 World

02 Identity

03 Zainichi

04 Figures

05 Connections

The Living Atlas / TFA

SUMMER READING · TEXT TWO

Things Fall Apart

1958 · Igboland, Nigeria

WORLD OF THE NOVEL

01 World

02 Cosmology

03 Colonialism

04 Figures

05 Connections

What you should be checking now: Pachinko has a bilateral medallion band, a butterfly signature, and medallion corners on its cards. TFA has the Akwete diamond band, an uli pair on its quote, and uli curves on its card corners. Both are anchored by the same Fraunces voice and same skeleton. The question: does each side feel meaningfully itself now — and do they still feel like the same site?